

The new MEDICAL City

We have finally managed a complete overhaul of our internet presence. This is the result.

We have created a sound basis which will enable us to expand this area further in future. Under the heading News & Events you will find regularly updated information on our company and its products, fairs and exhibitions etc. So it will be particularly worthwhile visiting this section regularly.

Currently the information on our company and its products is spread over a number of different domains. As time goes by we intend to move all the information to this one site. This reorganization is likely to take a while, so you are welcome to continue using the previous sources of information for the time being. Should you no longer find what you are looking for on the 'old' site, just take a further look here. No doubt the information will already have been incorporated here.

Of course we need your feedback to make this site as effective as possible. Should you wish to suggest improvements, fail to find the information you are looking for or just want to drop us a line, please use our contact form. We would like to thank you in advance for all your feedback and suggestions for improvement.

We hope you enjoy our new MEDICAL City and look forward to your next visit :-).
